REGUS GROUP LAUNCHES ONLY MEMBERSHIP PROGRAM TO PROVIDE WORLDWIDE ACCESS TO 750 BUSINESS CENTERS

Program Empowers Greater Efficiency for Mobile Workforce

DALLAS - February 23, 2005 – Today Regus (LSE: RGU), the largest provider of On-Demand professional workplaces with 750 worldwide locations, is advancing the productivity of the nation's growing mobile workforce with the introduction of Network Access, the first and only membership program that enables business travellers to access fully furnished and equipped offices and meeting rooms when away from their primary workspace.

"More than 40% of our corporate clients are in discussions with us about workplace strategies to support their mobile workforce," said Mark Dixon, CEO, Regus Group. "The benefits of our innovative program will positively impact any business in two significant ways. First, our high quality work environment and support staff will maximize the productivity of a traveling professional, whether they are conducting business in Beijing, Mumbai, New York or Paris. Secondly, our members can book offices or meeting rooms by the hour or day, enabling them to drive down their business expenses."

Workplace studies reveal that executives plan to increase the number of hours they work outside of their traditional workspace, thereby requiring the creation of a service that can accommodate business people and their specific needs while on the road.

Austin, Texas-based Vignette, a software and services company, is one of the first companies to take advantage of Network Access. John H. Degnan, III, Director, Global Real Estate & Facilities of Vignette Corporation, commented, "The Network Access program is cost effective and ideal for our mobile workforce. Flexibility in locations, configurations, and the amount of time we need offices or conference rooms are of utmost importance for Vignette. This program acts as an extension of our own property portfolio."

Regus Network Access membership benefits include:

- Ready-to-Use Offices and Meeting Rooms by the Hour or Day - Work from a private office at any location across the Regus Group Network
- Global Concierge Service - Regus trained team members are available to help business executives across the globe
