NEW WEB SITES FOR REGUS GROUP REVOLUTIONIZE COMMERCIAL REAL ESTATE THROUGH AN ON-DEMAND PLATFORM FOR SECURING WORKPLACES WORLDWIDE

IconNicholson creates Web presence where users find offices and meeting rooms worldwide in a few clicks

DALLAS - March 25, 2005 – Regus Group (LSE: RGU), the largest provider of On-Demand professional workplaces with 750 locations, has launched a new Web presence with the help of IconNicholson, a leading IT professional services firm. Through <http://www.regus.com/>, <http://www.hq.com/> and <http://www.stratisnet.com/>, securing offices and meeting rooms is now as transactional as arranging travel, shopping or buying stock.

The new Web sites respond to the mobile, global workforce and meet a full range of needs whether a visitor seeks a new office, a meeting room with conference facilities, or a small office with mail capabilities and receptionist services. With advanced search capabilities, visitors can find spaces that match their specific business requirements including location and proximity to certain facilities or landmarks. IconNicholson focused on creating a highly usable site experience and technical platform, which provide diverse users with the specific information they seek quickly. The Web sites reduce client cost and effort from researching, touring and negotiating space options, especially when quick market entry is crucial.

Mark Dixon, Chief Executive Office of Regus Group, says, "Our vision is that commercial real estate should be a readily accessible commodity online just like other products and services. IconNicholson's enhancement of our Web presence allows customers to review, access and secure professional workplaces immediately throughout our global network from the comfort of their desk."

"The Web sites bring Regus' hallmark customer service and flexible offerings to the Web," says Robert Fisher, Creative Director at IconNicholson. "We are thrilled to work with Regus to advance their business and customer service through the Internet."
